nothing special really. Very Disappointing. This capture app has potential, like the plugin feature. But the potential is overall wasted.

Your video files will have a ridiculous huge size p.e. 11 minutes recording gameplay results is 6 gb xD with obs I have in 12 minutes 236 mb. Because of this it is useless.

Also doing just new version and abandon the old version just to sell again is kinda like scam. I paid for this program and I never had a usefull use with it.

I can not recommend this software there are way better option out there instad of buying this. rather donate obs some money.

greetings. This game needs more recent reviews. So....

I bought it yesterday while on sale after they released the new action cards.

I'm happy with it. I've played board war games for years and even have many from "back in the day". This is different in that you are not simulating a real battle but solving a tactical challenge. Other reviews mention that and it helped me adjust to the game and enjoy it more.

Based on the other reviews a LOT has changed. I've monitored the forums for weeks and noticed the devs are responsive and receptive. Players can be pretty demanding and impatient. The devs seem to take it all in stride.

Most recently action cards were added and they are a fun aspect to the game. They give additional power, can distrust the opponent, etc. I really appreciate that the cards will have a green border when it is applicable to the phase or unit you are on at the moment. THAT is very helpful. Such details make the PC edition superior to the boardgame edition.

The game description above covers the concept and the images let you see the what you're getting so...

Pros...

Graphically impressive. The artwork is true to the boardgame. My PC is able to handle the "fantastic" graphic setting and it really looks nice.

Humorous. There are many tongue-in-cheek quips and subtle nods to cult favorites like Kelly's Heroes and The Dirty Dozen to name just a few. I think that reinforces that it is not a hardcore simulation but a challenging puzzle.

The game is upfront about the play style. You get a handful of units and a set time limit. The player needs to determine how to manage those to achieve a win. It's fairly quick to play - depending on how long you ponder your move.

Adjustable difficulty. I'm a fairly casual gamer so I usually play while doing something else. Knowing I can dial it down or up is a nice element.

Tutorials get you going. I finished them all in under one hour. You are into the core game quickly.

Lots of hints on the screen. You can turn them off but they do help clarify how the game is intended to be played.

Restarts are easy. If I get a bad roll and decide I want to start again it's just a couple clicks and I'm ready. Same if I missed a key aspect of the setup and want to go back. If you're not sure how something works just play and when it happens you can restart with the new knowledge. I had a number of "Oh THAT'S how that works" moments.

Editor is EASY and FAST. I played only two hours on the campaigns before I was setting up my own battles. I wanted some tank vs tank action and it was EASY to create. I'm expecting the Sitherine forums have player created missions to share.

You can easily alt-tab out of the game and return without any issues.

Runs great on Windows 8, Nvidia card, 1920 x 1080

Cons...

It can be initially frustrating to determine how certain elements function. The tutorials get you going but I still had questions and the e-manual didn't close the gap. However, my solution has been to play, take the loss, and let that show me how the mechanics work. I think it is less of a "con" if you know going in -- so I'm telling you now.

At the moment it is 34% off and I'd recommend it if you seek an entertaining game that is also challenging.

.. I got this as part of the Killing Floor Bundle. This DLC is the only character DLC I care about because of Paramedic Alfred Anderson; because I mainly play Field Medic, this character pack allows me to look the part as well.. For $5? Hell yeah!!! I got it for the kids really but started playing and laughing a good bit :) .Lots of control options and split screen coop(kids). I expected to play a level and put it down but its addictive and funny so I had to keep going.Play it on "deadly" difficulty for most fun. Can drop now some big balls

This game is such a underrated classic. The music, the voice work, the presentation is just amazing for it's time. Even now the music sends chill when clashing with other armies.

I really wonder why this franchise just died off. I mean LOTD3 was crap, but if they make a LOTD4 like 2... would be a match made in heaven.. Lamp Lighting Simulator 2018. 10/10 would play again.. This is one of those games that you either love or hate.. STOP !!!!!

step 1 never buy this step 2 deinstall if u buy it

step 3 buy a good game or if u like buying♥♥♥♥♥ENJOY. I finally decided to start playing this, just to give it a try. I ended up playing all the way to the end in one sitting, it took like 4 hours. I never do that with games, I almost never play for 4 hours straight. This one I just couldn't stop. Every time I seemed to get to a stopping point I had to know what was coming next, what's through this door, where does that ladder lead to? The ending I got was unexpected and totally bizarre. I kept thinking I was almost to the end, but there was always one more section, one more puzzle. Then when it was finally over I wasn't sure at first until the credits appeared.
